FEAR MORE TROUBLE IN MINE INDUSTRY

COLUMBUS, Dec. 30—Apprehension was manifested here today lest the eastern operators announce they will follow the south Ohio operators in rejection of the United Mine Workers of America contracts.

Operators are rejecting the invitation to attend the next meeting for signing of a new wage scale for the central competitive field.

IS DOUBTING THOMAS NO LONGER

"All medicines and doctors for stomach trouble proved worthless in my case. Everybody recommended something else and nothing helped, so I became a doubting Thomas as to any cure. While in St. Louis a party named May's Wonderful Remedy so highly that I bought a bottle and I am now a doubting Thomas no longer. It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded."

WASTE IN MINING METHODS IS CAUSE OF AMERICAN PLAN

SEATTLE Dec. 30—Mine operators would not need to institute "open shop" prices if scientific methods of production were instituted. This is the conclusion drawn by district officials of the mine workers from statements made by Earl R. McWilliam, mining engineer at the U. S. Bureau of Mines at the University of Washington.

More than 25 per cent of the entire coal output of the State is lost by wasteful methods of preparation and utilization, he declared recently after investigating methods in twelve Washington mines. One mine has a million-ton dump from which a 30 per cent recovery is being made now. From this dump alone 300,000 tons of valuable slack coal, useful for furnace and cooking, will be recovered, following the recent discovery of the wealth contained in it.

DR. WRIGHT HEADS MEDICAL SOCIETY

Dr. E. M. Wright was elected president of the Coshocton County Medical Society as a result of an enthusiastic meeting involving practically every physician in the city. Four days, night at the City Hotel. The physicians, officers elected to the society were Dr. T. W. Leary, vice president and Dr. J. D. Leary, secretary. The delegate elected to the state convention was Dr. E. C. Cui and the alternate was Samuel Cui.

Two interesting papers were read by Dr. M. C. Cui and Dr. J. D. Leary. Dr. Cui addressed his listeners on the subject, "The Responsibility Of The Physicians In Reporting Communicable Diseases." Dr. Leary read a paper on, "The Prevention And Treatment Of Pertussis."

The meeting was called at 8 o'clock.

TRAMP IS SHOT TO DEATH IN MISSION

BALTIMORE, Md. Dec. 30—While nearly four score men slept on cots on all sides of him, on an upper floor of the Inasmuch Gospel mission, West Saratoga, an unidentified man of about 45 or 50 years of age was shot to death early today. The slayer then rushed down stairs and threatened to shoot an official of the mission who attempted to halt the man. The official retreated and the murderer escaped.

The shooting aroused the sleepers, and in a few minutes wild confusion reigned. None of the lodgers, however, witnessed the shooting. A general police alarm has been sent out in an effort to capture the murderer.

Another Ballinger Raid?

EVIL rather than good lurks in the congressional proposal to transfer the Forest Service of the federal government from the Agricultural department back to the Department of the Interior. Prior to 1906 the Forest Service was in control of the Department of the Interior. Due to the influence of President Roosevelt, Gifford Pinchot and other Progressives it was switched almost in its entirety to the Agricultural Department.

In connection with this transfer and growing out of it sprang many of the big political stories with which the Roosevelt administrations abounded. The big interests that for years had been looting the national domain at will were suddenly halted. The rape of the nation's timber reserves, the public mineral wealth and water power had until then always been regarded as the fit subjects of plunder under successive administrations of both parties.

Men well under fifty can still recall the newspaper scare headlines that grew out of the Ballinger scandals and the determined fight made by Roosevelt to check the criminal waste of the nation's waning natural resources. Some of this interesting political gossip is recalled in the article in The Forum in this issue contributed to the paper by Gifford Pinchot, still one of the country's sanest and ablest progressives.

Naturally Mr. Pinchot is personally aroused by the proposed return of the Forest Service to the Department of the Interior, where, presumably it will again be made the football of the big interests and be plundered by them as of yore. In Mr. Pinchot's article are many admirable, common-sense suggestions that must appeal to the average voter of all parties. Our timber supply is too near the vanishing point to be tampered with now as it was a quarter of a century ago.

And just why the Harding administration will flirt with incipient vandalism of this kind is past comprehension. It is certainly poor politics for an administration that is already sufficiently tarred with the reactionary stick. Even if the president is in sympathy with those interests that are feverishly grasping at our rich but rapidly diminishing timber supplies, to yield to them at this time will simply add to the volume of political capital which is being stored up against his party for a future day of wrath.

As Mr. Pinchot suggests, the Interior Department is simply the federal real estate office. It is not interested in making things grow or in conserving the dwindling natural wealth of the federal government. It is the Agricultural Department that is interested in conserving things and in increasing the products of nature. The Forest Service is not only quite well off under the fostering care of the latter department, IT BELONGS THERE.

Since the return of the Republican party to power there has been a wholesale drive by vicious interests to get their clutches on the riches of the national domain. Can this be merely a coincidence, or is there some connection, some pre-election arrangement by which certain campaign pledges are now being fulfilled by the introduction in congress of just such vicious measures as the one Mr. Pinchot calls attention to in another column on this page?

This drive not only includes the natural resources in the various states of the west, but is especially directed against the great natural resources of Alaska. Already there has been a campaign in a certain class of servile metropolitan newspapers looking to this consummation. Propaganda of the rankest kind is carried in these papers all purporting to show that there is the grossest mismanagement by the government of Alaskan affairs. In all of these articles is the subtle suggestion that it would be better for everyone concerned for the government to give up this or that undertaking and turn it over to private interests.

It is scarcely possible that the people, once their attention is called to the plain intent of these interests, will be any slower to respond to the call of duty now than they were in Roosevelt's days. President Harding doubtless desires another nomination and election. It will do him no good for the impression to spread further that his administration is bent upon conducting the government for the benefit of certain small but influential groups of citizens rather than for the benefit of the people as a whole.

A Federal Anti-Lynching Law

A commendable attempt to check lynching by federal legislation is made in the Dyer bill, now under consideration in the House of Representatives.

The bill prescribes a penalty of five years' imprisonment or more for persons found guilty of "depriving any person of his life without authority of law as a punishment for or to prevent the commission of some actual or supposed offense," makes criminally responsible any state or municipal officer who fails to make reasonable efforts to protect a prisoner who is threatened by a mob, and holds liable for $10,000 damages, or a proportionate part, any county in which a lynching takes place or which allows the passage of a mob with a prisoner illegally in its hands.

Judge Guy D. Goff, assistant to the attorney general of the United States, has testified before the House judiciary committee that in his opinion the act is a constitutional exercise of the federal police power.

No argument should be necessary in defense of this bill, which is a clear and direct application of the constitutional provision that no state shall deprive any person of life, liberty, or property without due process of law. Lynching cannot ordinarily take place without the connivance of the local authorities. If they will not act, the federal government should. To call this assertion of the constitutional rights of every citizen a violation of state sovereignty is to deny sixty years of history. If there is any American principle which can be called fundamental it is that the poorest, the most ignorant, even the guiltiest, are entitled to protection from everything except the duly imposed penalties of the law.

If southerners—or northerners, either, for both have offended—wish to avoid the application of this law they have only to enforce the state and municipal laws already existing.

HERMAN KURTZTISCH, Milwaukee, Wis.

"When it comes to eating, working and sleeping I'm like a different man from what I was a short time ago," said Herman Kurtztisch, 406 1/2 North Main, Milwaukee, with the Northwestern Life Insurance Co., in relating his experience with Tanlac.

"My whole system was about to give way as a result of two years' constant suffering from stomach trouble and I was so run down and worn out I was hardly able to work. I actually dreaded to eat, as after every meal I suffered so terribly from heartburn, and I was so nervous I got little rest day or night.

"If it hadn't been for Tanlac I'm firmly convinced I would have had to resign my place. It came to my aid in the nick of time and I am strong for it. Tanlac was worth at least fifty times what it cost me."

Ernest Williams and leading drug-gists everywhere.

Where are the proud, haughty beauties of yesterday? Beauties vibrant with light hearted health and girlish freshness. Yesterday they ate terrapin from great silver dishes in perfumed splendor. Today they crouch in pitiful obscurity at ham and egg counters.

No street forgets so quickly as Broadway. Greenwich Village gave a benefit the other night to a girl in her mid twenties whose name three years ago swung from lip to lip and who was a nightly exhibit in the smoke thickened air of the hilarious jazz palaces.

They found her in Pell street, her beauty gone, her frail body racked by a hacking cough. Arizona and a tent loomed as the only hope. Broadway showed not interest. Not one of the dilettante came. A few dollars were raised among the generous hearted attic scribbles and dabblers.

Time is the Broadway crusher. No one ever plays the game and wins. Yet each night a new crop beats their wings against the white hot flame. It is strange but they know it is a losing game. And so, fearing to look life squarely in the face, develop a philosophy of singing in the dark.

I dropped into a theatrical office. Two girls, who were quite the talk of a musical show two years ago, were now rolling dice next as they gambled with life. Magnificent fur coats were molting and sloughing.

Peach blown complexion had given away to sticky white faces. Lines tracing stolen years, revealed pinched faces shell like in their hardness. And they laughed the shadow laugh of the doomed. And called their dice The prim young secretary pointed to them.

"Poor girls," she said to me "they've been here every day for weeks. I haven't the heart to tell them that there isn't a chance. And what would be the use? For in their hearts they know it."

Christy Mathewson, recuperating at Saranac Lake, has received his second check from the proceeds of the benefit given for him by New York baseball fans. The first check was for $30,000 and the second for something more than $24,000. They were discussing the tribute to the Lambs.

"Some day I suppose they will be giving a benefit for me," said a member naming a certain scrappy manager. "I'll hit the phone booth to give it in," said another.

WALT MASON THE CRITIC
The critics gather round me when I would play my harp, attempting to confound me with caustic words and sharp; they do not like the man in which I hold my lyre. I smile it with a s-p-a-n-n-e-r, and that uns up their ire. "You pompos are punk and hollow," the base critics say. "why don't you try to follow where Homer led the way?" And once they used to peevish me, but now I care no whoop; they cannot vex or grieve me, or place me in the soup. For evermore I'm clinging to one old-fashioned plan; in sawing or in singing I do the best I can. No matter what you're doing the critics will understand, offend and beshrewing, to say you should be censored. If you are painting fences they'll say your taste in paint would shock our seven senses, and make an artist faint. And they will rate you soundly if you are frying grease, and they will roast you roundly if you are beating goose. There always are the knockers who watch you while you toil, repairing can-seat rockers, or harrowing the soil, but if you keep on doing the best that you know how, their counselless cotton-chewing should never cloud your brow.

FOR FREEDOM OF DISCUSSION
Editor The Tribune:

This is a line of thanks for your full grown, man's size editorial in The Tribune on the Debs case entitled "Let Us Forget." The merits of the editorial are numerous and conspicuous, but what seems to me to be its superlative virtue is the ATTITUDE you urge upon your readers, the attitude of open-mindedness and freedom from timidity and malignance when regarding a man, an institution, an idea, a movement or anything else.

Really, sir, I am more appreciative than I can easily express of your vigorous editorial. May I not venture an illustration of the significance of freedom of discussion? Not long ago our government borrowed the people's money at four and a half per cent interest, and immediately handed over billions of this same money to the oil trust, the lumber trust and other conspicuously noisy and vituperous industrial barons for war material at a rate of profit of from five times to fifty times the rate of interest allowed the plain people.

And we were not permitted even to discuss a big bald fact not a word. The pentecosts gaped wide open for us—swallowed hundreds of us for merely wishing to discuss such things freely and openly.

The tax burden today would be far lighter—billions lighter in the ultimate total—if the dear people had permitted such outrageous favoritism.

TO STOP COUGHING AT NIGHT

When anyone is suffering from a bronchial affliction or has a cough that lingers on and grows worse at night, the loss of sleep tends to weaken the sufferer and grows more serious the longer it is neglected. Mrs. M. Suter, 647 Longbrook Ave., Stratford, Conn., writes: "Foley's Honey and Tar has given me great relief from a severe attack of bronchitis." No medicine stands higher throughout the nation as a family remedy for colds, coughs and croup.

POLICE GET STRONG STUFF IN RAID

MANSFIELD, Dec. 30.—The Mansfield police department is prepared to serve a New York dinner that would spur the appetite of the most blasé New Yorker.

The department confiscated sixty-five one-pint bottles of flavoring extract, fifty per cent alcohol, by volume.

The label on the bottles recommends this extract for all kinds of pastry and ices. H. A. Trout who was arrested for selling this high-powered flavoring extract, gave a bond of $500 for his appearance.

The state is interested in this high voltage extract. Trout claims he sold only to married men who were supposed to take it home for their wives to use in spiking pies.

REPEL OF TAX ON EXPRESS SHIPMENTS HELPS SAYS CLARK

The public will save $1,500,000 a month as a result of the elimination of the War Tax on express shipments, according to George C. Taylor, President of the American Railway Express Company. An announcement to this effect was made today by R. S. Clark, the local express agent.

The "Revenue Act of 1921" eliminates the War Tax of one cent on every twenty cents and fractions thereof in transportation charges on all express shipments. This tax during the year of 1920 amounted to $17,502,318. The average transportation charges for each express shipment was approximately $1.50 and the average War Tax for each shipment was eight cents. The elimination of the tax, therefore, Mr. Taylor states, will virtually amount to a decrease in rates of a little over five per cent. Mr. Taylor believes that this should have tendency to stimulate business and thereby accelerate the rapidly improving conditions throughout the entire country.

The American Railway Express Company handles approximately one million shipments a day or nearly four hundred million shipments a year," Mr. Taylor goes on to say. The elimination of the Tax will relieve the American Railway Express Company of an immense amount of labor which has been involved in calculating, entering on waybills and collection of tax, not to mention the expense of checking and accounting entailed.

"The Treasury Department has requested express carriers to advise all claimants who have claims pending, for overcharges, or who file such claims after December 31st, 1921, that claims for refund of tax should be filed separately on Treasury Department Form No. 46, with the Commissioner of Internal Revenue within four years from the time tax was paid, claim being barred by statute of limitations if received after such time."

Mr. Clark pointed out that as the Revenue Act becomes effective January 1st, 1922, the tax on all shipments forwarded "prepaid" on or before December 31st, will be collected.

CATTLE MEN WANT TARIFF ON HIDES

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29.—A split over "free" hides was brewing today between members of the senate finance committee as a result of cattle men that hides be taken off the free list.

The prospect that hides will be required to pay a duty when a permanent tariff act is finally written in spite of the fact that only once before have hides ever been off the free list in the tariff laws of the country, loomed today. Tanners and leather men have mustered all their forces to keep hides "free."

Cattle men from all over the country informed the committee that their business is ruined and that the free administration has been one of the potent factors in accomplishing this.

It is understood certain members of the committee, led by Senator Curtis, Republican of Kansas, are determined to fight for the cattle men's demands. Leather goods manufacturers and tanners deny the cattle men would be benefited by a duty on hides. The tanners, who buy the livestock, would be the principal beneficiaries they declare.

"A duty on hides will cost the American public upwards of $100,000,000 a year," spokesmen for the tanners told the committee. The kid leather tanners trade has pointed the heavy tanners in the demand that hides be kept on the free list. They laid before the committee the charge that an effort is being made to divert the kid leather business from America to English forms.

The boot and shoe manufacturers also have called for free demands, with a plea that shoes be taken off the free list and taxed at 15 per cent.

MOTHER BRAVES FIRE TO SAVE CHILDREN

BUFFALO, Dec. 29.—Braving death today in her smoke-filled home, most of the rooms of which were afire, Mrs. Mary Heller, a widow, living in Tonawanda creek road, made four trips from the burning house to a barn to save her seven children.

Awakened by the roar of flames, Mrs. Heller aroused her children. Three children ran out but the youngest ones clung to the mother, paralyzed by fear. One at a time she took them in her arms to a barn 75 feet away. There she bundled them into horse blankets to keep them from freezing. It is believed an oil lamp explosion caused the fire.

LOVE IS THE ONLY SANCTION FOR WEDDED LIFE, DECLARES WOMAN

CINCINNATI, Dec. 29.—"What others think does not concern me," said pretty Miss Henrietta Barnes, known to her neighbors as Mrs. George M. Way, in discussing her relations with G. M. Withington, wealthy Marietta oil operator, whose wife Saturday filed suit for divorce, alleging that he was the father of Miss Barnes' three children and that he had bought her a mansion on Reading Road, Cincinnati, where she lives with her babies, the eldest of whom is seven years of age.

"I am married—more so than many who have stood up before a clergyman and said their 'marriage vows,'" she asserted. "The only sanction for marriage is love, and we have that." She declared that Withington is the father of the three children. Miss Barnes added that as soon as the Washington-co courts grant Mrs. Withington's plea for divorce she and the father of her children will go thru the marriage ceremony.

"Not that it will add anything to the sanctity of the tie that now binds, for we are now married in a spiritual sense, but it will make the paths of our little ones easier."

"The world is so censorious."

TROUBLE THREATENS IN MINE FIELDS OF SOUTHERN OHIO

COLUMBUS, Dec. 29.—Officers of the mine workers today indicated that the next move relative to the refusal of the Southern Ohio coal operators to negotiate with other operators and miners of the central competitive field for a new wage scale is up to John L. Lewis, Indianapolis, president of the U. M. W. of A.

Neither President Lee Hall nor Secretary-Treasurer George W. Savage of the Ohio United Mine Workers have indicated whether the Ohio miners' executive board will be called into session to consider the publicly announced attitude of the southern Ohio operators.

Senate Will Rule Japan Out, Threat

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29.—If Japan does not take herself out of the so-called protection clause of the four power pact treaty, the United States probably will.

In making this declaration today, Senator McNary, Repn., Ogn., announced his intention of offering a reservation to the treaty which would eliminate the Japanese homeland from Article 1, in case Japan herself does not insist upon such a reservation.

COMMISSION CHANGES RAILROAD DECISION

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29.—The I. C. C. today modified its decision of November 15 ordering a general readjustment of freight rates on shipments between points south of the Ohio, including the Mississippi Valley Jan. 31, 1922 to make such changes effective April 1, 1922.

It is understood the commission has found that all the decreases in rates proposed by the railroads are justified, but that in practically all increased rates proposed there was no justification. The commission decided to make the date of its order April 1 instead of January 31.

PEOPLE'S FORUM
Service in whole or in part from the Department of Agriculture to the Department of the Interior. Hearings have been held and will shortly be continued.
In the Department of Agriculture, where they are now, the Forest Service and the National Forests are safe, and so well managed that (except for certain special interests) they have won the unanimous support of the nation. Their purpose is to grow trees, and they belong naturally in the department which has to do with growing all crops, including tree crops, from the soil. Forestry is a part of agriculture and is so recognized the world around.
The Interior Department is the real estate agent of the Government. It is not the business of a real estate agent to grow crops on forest or farm. As a matter of fact, when the Interior Department had charge of the National Forests, years ago, they were so badly handled that President Roosevelt was forced to insist upon their transfer to the Department of Agriculture. The modern progress of forestry in America dates from that change.
The Forest Service has little business with the Department of the Interior, and what it has is rapidly diminishing. It has many times more business with the other Bureau of the Department of Agriculture, and that business is rapidly increasing. It is in constant and intimate cooperation with every branch of the Department where it is now.
The Department of Agriculture has much forest work to do outside the National Forests. There are more acres by twenty million in woodlots on farms than in all the remaining public domain, of which the Interior Department has charge. If the Forest Service were transferred, the Department of Agriculture would be compelled to build up a similar organization thus leading to more duplication in the Government service instead of less.
Forestry is doing admirably where it is. There is not one sound reason of any kind for the proposed transfer. It is neither good administration, good business, nor good politics to undo Roosevelt's work.
It is well understood in Washington that the same interests that attempted to gobble up the natural resources of Alaska Secretary Ballinger's time are at it again. The best stalking horse of the men behind the grab is the claim that Alaska is going backward. The fact is that from 1910 to 1920 the exports from Alaska have increased from $13,608,394 to $62,469,096 or 366 per cent, while during the same ten years the exports from the United States increased from $1,865,258,904 to $8,228,016,307, or 340 per cent. Alaskan business has actually been growing faster than the business of the United States, altho the latter has been increasing at a rate without precedent in the world's history.
The National Forests in Alaska, if they can be saved, will produce two million cords of pulpwood annually for all time, or enough to supply one-third of the present needs of the United States. The Forest Service in the Department of Agriculture has completed plans for developing this great resource in a way to open it to the public but keep the grabbers out.
More than half our timber is gone already. Only one-sixth of our virgin forests remain, and they are being cut at a rate that will destroy them entirely before twenty-five years. Only a little more unrestricted forest devastation will bring down upon us the dangerous hardships of a timber famine. The cost of pulpwood and lumber is already proof enough of the stage to which the scarcity has already advanced, and of what is still ahead.
Little has been heard of all this outside of Washington. The purpose of this letter is to let your people know what is planned, and to express my hope that when the occasion comes you will treat the proposal as it deserves. Unless the friends of forestry take up this matter in earnest, its enemies will win out. If they do, it will mean the ruin of the Forest Service, the wreck of the movement for forest protection in America, and higher prices for forest products of every kind. It would seem to be the wrong time to take chances with forestry just now, when every clearheaded citizen knows that with the utmost care we can hardly escape most serious trouble from the exhaustion of our forest supplies.
Sincerely yours,
GIFFORD PINCHOT,
Philadelphia Pa.

Farm Crop For Year Under Value of 1920
WASHINGTON, Dec. 29.—The important farm crops of the United States this year were valued at $5,875,877,000 today by the department of agriculture in its final estimates of the year. That is almost $3,400,000,000 less than last year's crops were worth and $8,000,000,000 less than the crops of two years ago when high prices prevailed for farm products. The values are based on prices paid to farmers on Dec. 1 and the crops comprise about 90 per cent of the value of all farms crops.
There were only two billion-dollar crops this year—corn and hay—while last year four crops were valued at a billion dollars or more. Production was below last year for almost every crop, altho the acreage of the important crops was slightly larger, except cotton.

WEST LAFAYETTE HAS ANOTHER EAGLE IN BASKETBALL FESTIVAL MAYOR TISH'S NET

A double-header dish of unusual flavor was the feature of the menu of West Lafayette's basketball epicureans Wednesday evening.

The premier event was supposedly the clash between the regular high school team and the Men's alumni. This contest, however, was not as closely fought as a similar game that was played between the girls' high school team and alumni.

The former game was taken easily by the older men, the final score being 23 to 18. The other game was won by the youngsters, who, after a close contest, led their opponents by a 16-11 count.

The lineup was as follows:
Boys' High School—Center, Shaw; forwards, Maragon and McCleary; guards, Hall and Daniels. Alumni—Center, O. McCleary and Lapp; forwards, Monroeh and Haver; guards, Taylor and J. McCleary.

Girls' High School—Center, Bell; forwards, Cochran and Daugherty; guards, Bucher and Maragon. Alumni—C. Lyons, forwards, Lapp and Monroeh; guards, McCleary and Rogers.

Is Seriously Ill

Miss Beanie Montgomery, of Roscoe, an aged lady was confined to the City hospital, Friday, suffering from the effects of a stroke. Her condition is considered serious.

Daniel Wilden, a trustee of the Fraternal Order of Eagles, Coshocton Aerie, was bonded for $200 Friday morning to appear at the hearing of officials of the Eagle lodge, charged with having intoxicating liquor in possession. The bond was signed by Jay Kitchens.

Wilden is the sixth official of the lodge to be arrested, following a raid on the lodge rooms which disclosed a quantity of home brewed beer stored there.

The hearing of the men will be held at 10 o'clock Saturday morning.

WARSAW BOY SCOUTS TO PLAY COSHOCTON

The Warsaw Boy Scout team will open the basketball season in the Warsaw gymnasium Saturday evening when they will clash with the Coshocton Boy Scout five.

The game will be called at 7:30 and promises to be hotly contested. Warsaw will be represented by practically the same lineup as last year, when the scouts won 10 out of 11 games.

REGULAR U. S. CAVALRY SHOWN IN "THE FOX"

Two Troops Acted For Universal For Weeks In The Desert

When you look at "The Fox," the Harry Carey picture now showing at Utahna Theatre, you are not merely seeing a screen production—you are beholding scenes from real life. Among the most interesting of these scenes are those in which cavalry is seen in action on the desert.

These troops of cavalry are not moving-picture troops composed of a mob of extra men; but a part of the Eleventh regular United States cavalry from the presidio at Monterey.

The almost unprecedented order, sending troops into the field to participate in the making of a moving picture was obtained by Irving G. Thalberg, director-general at Universal City, through Major-General Muir, commanding general of the Ninth Corps Area, who authorized Col. John M. Jenkins, commanding at the Monterey Presidio, to detach the troops for the purpose of going into the field to make pictures with Harry Carey.

When Harry Carey wrote "The Fox" he incorporated heroic actions for the regulars with the idea of giving international prominence to the efficiency of Americans troops under all circumstances.

You cannot miss this production shown at the Utahna Tonight and Saturday.

OHIO COAL BARONS WILL ASK MINERS TO TAKE WAGE CUT

COLUMBUS, Dec. 30 That the miners will be asked by the southern Ohio coal operators to accept a wage cut of not less than 20 per cent after April first next, became known here today.

Belief that the Hooking Valley operators will fail in their announced intentions of negotiating a separate wage scale agreement with the union miners was voiced today by officials of the Ohio U. M. W. unions who also expressed the opinion that no other association of operators will join with the southern Ohio operators in this proposal.

COLUMBUS MURDER IS BELIEVED AN ACCIDENT

COLUMBUS, Dec. 30 — Changing their viewpoint from that of murder to that of accident, police here today are continuing their efforts to solve the mystery surrounding the death of Charles C. Gallagher, Parsons' aviator, whose lifeless body was found on the tracks of a traction line south of this city Monday night.

The police, apparently, place credence in the statements of a number of persons who saw Gallagher shortly before he met death. They said Gallagher, seemingly drunk, was lying down at the spot where his lifeless body was found later. The police now are working on the theory that Gallagher was hit by a traction car.

ITALY STIRRED OVER FAILURE OF BANK

ROME, Dec. 30—Following the closing of the Italiana Disconto Bank, there was great excitement on the bourse today, which was forced to suspend operations.

The newspaper Epoca said that no agreement had been reached regarding the readjustment of the Italiana Disconto's affairs.

The liabilities of the Banca Italiana Disconto, which suspended yesterday were estimated today at 4,000,000,000 lire. The total assets are not known. The directors of whom Guglielmo Marconi is one, were invited to subscribe 200,000,000 lire to support the institution but only 15,000,000 were offered.

UNIONS OF GERMAN RAILROADS OPPOSE STINNES PROPOSAL

Threaten To Strike If Roads Are Surrendered To The Famed Captain Of Industry By Government

PASS RESOLUTIONS

All Classes United Solidly Against Effort To Place Roads In Hands Of Private Ownership

BERLIN, Dec. 31.—The German railroad unions have threatened a complete tieup if the government surrenders to the ultimatum of Hugo Stinnes under which the railroads are to be made the private property of the big German industrialists in return for private aid in restoring the national credit of Germany.

Organizations of the railmen have met in various centers and passed resolutions of protest and resistance to the Stinnes proposal, which has since been declared unacceptable in its original form by Chancellor Wirth.

The federal union of technical employees of the railroads has taken a strong stand against public surrender of the roads in a meeting here.

A general strike is demanded by the representatives of the Bavarian railroads at Munich in a resolution which states that "no means must be left untried in the battle to save the railroads from the great capitalists."

Full support is promised to the national organization.

The union of administrative railroad officials of Baden took similar action at Karlsruhe.

All classes of railway employees are united in their opposition to private management of the roads. Even if the government were willing to meet the demands of Stinnes, the veto by the rail employees would be sufficient to prevent realization.

The German railroads are organized into a federation of closely dovetailed unions that run a perfectly closed shop in all departments, including the groups that are classified as "administrative" in the American Plumb plan for management of the railroads. Until action by these federated unions in their own field dictates the policy of the government in railroad matters.

DREARY CHRISTMAS FOR CHILDREN OF STRIKING MINERS

SEATTLE, Dec. 31.—Christmas meant something this year to the 3000 children of locked out miners in the tent colonies in the foothills of the Cascades who have been waging a nine-months' fight against the Wall Street-owned Pacific Coast Coal Co.

Union labor of Seattle and Tacoma sent gifts of one-half pound of nuts, one-half pound of candy, with apples and oranges for each child.

It is expected that the Washington lockout, which followed refusal of union miners of District 10 to accept the breaking of the national wage scale and the "open shop" will last until April. The national wage scale will then be settled between the United Mine Workers of America and the coal operators throughout the nation.

WANT PROBE OF THE STATE ROAD BUILDING

COLUMBUS, Dec. 31.—Proposal that an investigation of the Cleveland, Columbus, Cincinnati road, now progressing in Knox-co, be made by three "competent engineers of known integrity" was made today by Attorneys W. S. Pealer and Randolph W. Walton, Columbus.

These attorneys who recently filed with the Attorney General, Price, allegations of irregularities relative to letting of road contracts and to purchase of supplies by the state, urged that these engineers be chosen by the Ohio Good Roads Federation, the State Society of Civil Engineers and the State Automobile Association.

Walton and Pealer urged that the three engineers make a report as to location, proper grades and character of grading done, and the quality of material used, including brick, together with an estimate as to what would be a proper cost of similar work done by contract by "reputable contractors" in competitive bidding under open specifications to lowest bidder as in the city of Columbus.

WHEN TERRE HAUTE WELCOMED EUGENE DEBS HOME

Flashlight photo taken at Terre Haute Union station when Eugene Debs (indicated by arrow) returned home.

Socialists and radicals from many sections of the country were in Terre Haute to welcome home Eugene Debs when the Socialist leader returned to the Indiana city a few days ago, after having spent more than two years in the Atlanta penitentiary. There was a considerable demonstration at the Union station and later at Debs's home. Debs made a speech in which he said among other things that he would devote the remainder of his life to getting people out of prison.

It will be seen from this that the general trend of farm prices both in things sold and things purchased, has a downward tendency.

NEW CHARGES OF LIQUOR LAW VIOLATIONS PLACED AGAINST OFFICERS OF EAGLES LODGE

CHURCH BELLS TO BE SILENT WITH COMING OF YEAR

Contrary to custom, Coshocton church bells will not herald the coming of the new year at midnight Saturday, according to present plans.

Whistles of local factories will no doubt observe the custom, however, several manufacturers Saturday expressing their willingness to issue orders for the blowing of the whistles.

As Sunday is New Year's day and the regular church services will be delivered then, it was decided at the recent meeting of the ministerial association to forego the usual watch night services Saturday night.

The ringing of the church bells has always been a part of these services and by doing away with the watch services, the announcement of the arrival of the new year by the ringing of the bells is lost.

A watch service from 11 to 12:30 will be held in the city hall by the Salvation Army Saturday night. After the services, the army band will parade the streets, serenading with appropriate hymns.

It has been announced that the Nazarene church is planning to conduct services thruout the night.

LABOR FEDERATION IS WELL PLEASED

WASHINGTON, Dec. 31.—Simultaneously with the issuance of its annual graphic chart of numerical strength, which in the past year has fallen from 4,080,000 to 3,920,000, the American Federation of Labor issues a statement of defiance to its foes and of congratulation to the workers upon the results of the past year's battles.

"Labor is the one force in our social life," says the leading editorial in the American Federationist, "that is compelled by its very character to strive to the utmost always for progress, freedom, democracy and justice. It would be fortunate if other elements were under similar self-imposed compulsion."

"Certain employers greeted the year 1921 with the battle cry of destruction. They felt that the road was clear for the amassing of fabulous wealth and for the reestablishing of industrial dictatorship."

Organized labor stood fir against this destructive movement. It has maintained its position with such tenacity of purpose that wage reduction has made but comparatively trifling headway, while the destruction of the union has made no progress at all.

"Labor had more than this to contend with, however. The courts contributed their share. Judicial power has been thrown on the side of predatory wealth. Destruction of law by usurped power has continued apace. Injunctions have grown and multiplied."

Then Mr. Gompers' organ proceeds to denounce the radicals and to take credit for the Hoover unemployment conference's survival and its "succeeding to such an extent that it is estimated that 1,500,000 workers have been re-employed." It takes credit also for leading the way to the conference on limitation of armament.

It concludes that "reaction has tried with all diligence and has failed to shake the progressive, enlightened, constructive purpose of the great masses of our people."

Two more charges of prohibition law violations were placed against the six officials of the Eagles lodge Saturday morning by Mayor W. S. Tish.

Charges of unlawfully manufacturing intoxicating liquor and unlawfully having in their possession materials with which to manufacture the liquor were placed against William McCoy, Frank Jones, William Cupps, Howard Bible, Daniel Wilden and Edwin Miller. The charges were made out against the men collectively.

A charge of unlawfully possessing intoxicating liquor was placed against the six lodge officials Wednesday afternoon following the confiscation of 504 bottles of home brewed beer by the police in a raid upon the lodge rooms in the Henderson building Tuesday evening.

Arraignment on all three charges will be held in mayor's court Saturday afternoon. The men will plead not guilty to the charges, according to information given out by C. Homer Durand, who is acting in defense of the Eagle officials.

Bonds amounting to $3,600 were furnished for the appearance of the six men. Each man was released under a bond of $200 on each of the three charges against the group.

Arraignment on the charge of unlawfully possessing intoxicating liquor was to have been held at 10 o'clock Saturday morning. The defense was unprepared for the group charge, according to Mayor Tish, and requested postponement of the arraignment until Saturday afternoon.

A short time after the men left the mayor's court, after their appearance for the first arraignment, warrants were issued for their arrests on the other two charges.

The deed was sealed and delivered in the presence of T. E. Beck, and A. C. Nanslyck, the latter being a justice of the peace and notary public of New York city.

EDITOR CALLS THE TRIAL OF ITALIANS
AMAZING SCANDAL

NEW YORK, Dec. 31.—The latest and in some respects one of the most noteworthy additions to the ranks of those who have denounced the Sacco-Vanzetti "frame-up" is Henry L. Mencken, member of the editorial staff of the Baltimore Sun, editor of the magazine "Smart Set" and a noted critic who is regarded as one of the ablest defenders of capitalism. Mencken has characterized the Sacco-Vanzetti case as "one of the most amazing scandals in the whole history of American jurisprudence."

Mencken for years has been one of the most outspoken and intelligent opponents of "radicalism" in America, and his opinion of the attempt to legally murder the two Italian labor men in Massachusetts is regarded as a striking evidence of the aroused public opinion in this case.

SEATTLE, Dec. 31.—Twenty thousand workers here were hit when the Scandinavian American banks of Seattle and Tacoma closed their doors last spring. Two banks, however, were members of the state guaranty fund administered by the state. Now depositors are asking state officials, if there is no way to prevent bank members from sneaking out of the guaranty fund to evade repayment of the loss of the Scandinavian-American.

The state guaranty fund had been regarded as liable for the losses caused by the failure of any member bank. Nearly all banks in the state are members of it.

COMMUNISTS MUST LEAVE NATIVE LAND

VIENNA, Dec. 31.—Four Hungarian Communists, Rudas, Kiraly, Vago and Landier—who have been fugitives since the fall of Bela Kun, have been ordered to leave Austria in three days. A hint is dropped that the remaining Hungarian Communists in Austria may receive a similar order.

The police continue their persecution of the Communists, and the authorities have again confiscated the Communist newspaper, "Rote Fahne."

OLD DEED IS BEING DISPLAYED HERE BY REAL ESTATE AGCY.

Conveyed 4,045 Acres Of County Land To Resident
In Payment For His Service
In Military Forces Of U. S.

A deed to 4,015 acres of Coshocton land, dated in the year of 1812, was being displayed in the offices of the McCounell & Kurr real estate agency Friday by George Conley, Coshocton Route 2.

It is written on sheepskin and quite legible.

John A. Hardenbrook and wife Marie of New York city are the signers of the deed which transfers the land from their ownership to that of Edward McCarty, Sr., of Paddy Town, Virginia.

The land in the Muskingum river valley from what is now known as the Brown lane to Conesville constitutes the 4,015 acres. It was sold to McCarty at the rate of $1 an acre according to the deed.

In the deed, it is stated that the land granted to Hardenbrook by President John Adams, in a deed dated June 23, 1800.

The grant was made under an act passed by congress June 1, 1790, entitled, "an act regulating the grants of land appropriated for the satisfying of warrants for military services and for the society of United Brethren to the propagating of the gospel among the heathen," according to the deed in Conley's possession.

A Johnson, recorder of Coshocton at that time recorded the deed October 15, 1812. The recorder's fee was $1.58.

The deed was sealed and delivered in the presence of T. E. Beck, and A. C. Nanslyck, the latter being a justice of the peace and notary public of New York city.

George Conley now owns a part of the land which was included in the tract deeded to McCarty in 1812.

CHILD PRODIGY WEDS PARISIAN

Mrs. Winifred Stoner de Bruche, who became famous at twelve because of her ability to speak and write eight languages, play the piano, violin, mandolin and guitar, and because of a suffrage book she wrote at that time entitled "A Plea to Gallant Knights," has become a bride. She was married a few days ago to Count Charles Philippe de Bruche of Paris, a member of the old French nobility.

LEGAL BAR TO DEBS' PARDON AFFORDS HIM CHANCE TO SHOW HIS GRATITUDE TO GOVT.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 31.—The department of justice does not anticipate that any serious attempt will be made for some time to secure an absolute pardon for Eugene V. Debs, thereby restoring his full civil rights.

The legal restrictions would serve as a bar to any early application, officials said. Even after Debs has been at liberty for a year, the time limit in which a pardon may be sought, it is not expected that he will seek further clemency.

Officials are now averse to discussing activities of the liberated Socialist chief, altho they will continue to observe his actions. This was indicated by Daugherty's statement that the government would measure Debs' gratitude by his conduct in the future.

PRESIDENT OF GERMANY ASKS WORLD'S HELP

The peoples of all countries must cooperate to heal the wounds caused by the World war, President Ebert, of Germany, declared in a New Year's statement written expressly for the I. N. S. The German people, he says, see better times ahead.

By Frederick Ebert, president of Germany.

BERLIN, Dec. 31.—Despite the unspeakable distress which the German people are now passing thru we must not give up hope for a better future. The crisis of the present misery is generally recognized to be chiefly economic disintegration, but economic recovery is impossible without spiritual and moral regeneration.

The war caused an excess of political selfishness, lust of power and unbridled hatred, consequently the true healing of war wounds is possible only thru human fellowship, moderation and the reconciliation of genuine peace.

These can only be achieved from cooperation of all people. No government must forget that each is only a link in the great chain of humanity. When one becomes sick and the remaining do not succor it all the others become infected.

In our great misery it is certain consolation to see the friendly relations begin dawning on the rest of the world. The German people surely have not reached the end of their sufferings for we know there are hard trials still ahead. But in time of stress the forces of the nation must exert to the utmost their strength and energy to work for a better future. Therein I see the guarantee of better times.

EGYPT THREATENING TO FOLLOW LEAD OF THE IRISH PATRIOTS

System Of Passive Resistance May Be Employed
By Egyptians Against
The British

ANOTHER PROBLEM

Irish Victory, It Is Believed, Will Strengthen Material- ly The Stand Of Egyptian Nationalists

LONDON, Dec. 31.—While England is offering peace to Ireland that has successfully resisted its domination, it is goading Nationalist Egypt into becoming another outraged Ireland.

Lord Amby's letter to the Egyptian Government, following upon the rejection by the Egyptian delegation of the Foreign Office terms of settlement, confirms the British military occupation of Egypt, which Great Britain is pledged in honor to have terminated before now (during the war in point of fact) and destroys Egypt's hope of independence for self government for an indefinite period. The effect upon Nationalist Egypt is, of course, what the effect upon Sinn Fein Ireland was of the breakdown of the old Home Rule movement in 1914.

A policy of passive resistance—Sinn Fein for Egypt, in fact—involving a strike of civil servants, a general strike, and a boycott of British goods, has already been determined on. Whether passive resistance will lead on in time to armed resistance, as it did in Sinn Fein Ireland will rest entirely with the British Foreign Office, who have it in their power to turn Egypt into a friend or a bitter enemy and at present seems resolved on the former course.

In India also, the repercussion of the Irish peace treaty is likely to be a strengthening of Nationalist opinion, and for reasons similar to those responsible for Egyptian unrest. Lord Reading's original pacific policy is gradually turning into the usual suppression of free speech and search for sedition in every assembly of Indian politicians.

This month, the numbers of the unemployed in Great Britain reach a total of nearly two millions, which means at a moderate estimate that about one in six of our population is living at a starvation level. Not less destructive of industrial prosperity is the continued capitalist attack upon wages and standards of living, wage cuts alone up to the present time affecting some 7,000,000 people (including dependents).

The striking memorandum, just issued by the new General Council of the Trades Union Congress, is a fine document of refusal on the part of organized labor to "accept the theory that the proper function of industry is to provide a bare living for the worker and an opportunity for wealth accumulation for the employer." The worker, it says, "has a moral right to claim improvement in working conditions," and this claim cannot be resisted legitimately "until every form of privilege is abolished and all artificial costs on industry are removed."

The memorandum proceeds to point out the economic delusion of proving that greater, not less, output results from shortening of the working day. This is proved incidentally also by experience in Russia, where, since the Revolution, better organization of industry, coupled with the workers' improved working hours, have raised the output even above that of pre-war times—the only European country, I believe, of which this can be said.

The statement of the General Council, representing as it does at least 5,000,000 organized workers, is a timely one, for the attack of the employing class upon wages and conditions is only part of the general un-economic policy of governmental economy, in which the Ministries of Labor, Health and Education have been specially signalled out for drastic economies.

MINERS TO PLAN FOR SITUATION IN OHIO

COLUMBUS, Dec. 31.—That a policy designed to meet the situation developing from the refusal of southern Ohio and Pittsburg coal operators to negotiate with the union miners officials for a new wage scale applicable to the entire central competitive field will be formulated during the national convention of the United Mine Workers of America, at Indianapolis next February is the opinion expressed here today by officials of the Ohio miners.

Eastern Ohio coal operators are expected to announce their stand concerning this matter at a conference tomorrow in Cleveland.

The French Crisis

THERE could hardly be a more appealing contrast than that between the warlike pretensions of the French government and the pitiable financial condition in which that government now finds itself. According to Senator Henry Cheron the national debt, which now stands at 300,000,000,000 francs, will reach 425,000,000,000 francs by 1930, and will then consume annually an interest charge equal to the whole of the present national budget.

M. Cheron was making this figure as frightful as he could in order to emphasize the necessity of standing firm against a reduction of the German indemnity claims. Yet he did not need to exaggerate in order to show that in the absence of heavy payments from Germany, France is perilously near to a confession of bankruptcy. And it is apparent that Germany cannot immediately make heavy payments. The approaching conference, at Cannes, at which M. Briand has promised to make no concessions regarding the indemnity, has been called for the very purpose of arranging concessions. M. Briand knows it, M. Briand's friends and enemies know it, Lloyd George knows it. Relief can come, not by a policy of increased harshness toward Germany, but by the use of English and American credit.

In the light of this fact the French naval policy, as it is manifested at Washington, assumes almost grotesque proportions. Dependent for her solvency upon the resources of her former allies, France proposes to waste hundreds of millions upon worse than useless armament; helpless without the goodwill of England and the United States, she projects an undersea fleet which can only be aimed at the unarmed North Atlantic commerce of those two countries. Standing in a position infinitely more dangerous than that of 1815 or of 1870, she dreams of dominating Europe by force. While her whole system of society and government is at stake she haggles concerning submarine ratios. Her statesmen are groping, in antediluvian darkness, toward the verge of a fearful precipice.

It is not too much to say that as 1922 looms, France is the key to the western world. She stands, more than any other western nation, at the crossroads of civilization. If she inclines in one direction she may reduce Europe again to that condition of armed anarchy in which it struggled for the half century preceding the great war. If she turns in the other she may give peace, security, and prosperity to herself and to all the occidental nations.

Egypt's Aspiration

NOT the least of the problems which Great Britain must face as a result of the Irish settlement is the impetus given to the nationalist movements in Egypt and India. Mr. Sastri, the Indian member of the British delegation at the Washington conference, declared flatly to newspaper men the other day that the Irish settlement would be interpreted in India as making dominion status in the near future for her inevitable. In Egypt, too, fresh vigor may be expected in the struggle for freedom.

At the moment, the effort to find a basis of understanding in Egypt has broken down. Lord Milner's report declared that a formula must be found which would supersede the existing British protectorate over Egypt by an agreement which would recognize Egyptian independence while securing the essential interests of Great Britain.

Toward this a deputation of Egyptian leaders, headed by Adly Pacha, has been struggling thru slow negotiations with Lord Curzon.

The difficulty is that British military authorities, saying that Egypt is part of the empire's "line of communication" with India, insist on a degree of military control which the Egyptians refuse to accept. The British want ample security for the Suez Canal, a permanent naval base at Alexandria, the control of the Sudan, and standing garrisons of British troops at Cairo and Alexandria. The Egyptians argue that as long as a British army is in Egypt the authority of the sultan, council of ministers, and national assembly must continue to be a polite fiction. British arms have always backed up the rule of the British "agents-general," "high commissioners," etc., who have been the real power in Egypt in recent years.

The last three years in Ireland have been a horror which no sane man wants to see repeated in any other quarter of the globe. Most of all is this true of India and Egypt, where the danger of a race war, a holy crusade by Mohammedans, lies close to the surface. The most encouraging fact in sight is the realization by sensible Englishmen that this true, and that imperial policy must be shaped accordingly.

New York Day-By-Day

By O. O. MCINTYRE

NEW YORK, Dec. 31.—Thoughts while strolling around New York: Manhattan's dying sun. Side streets bathed in a red glow, Silhouette background of domes and towers. Murmurs to impale the moon. Slim skyscrapers dotted with pin point lights. Monuments to dreams of doers. Small onions and steak.

WALT MASON

I mark the specialist in crime, as on his course he hops, and when he isn't serving time he's dodging gunshots; cops; and he can never reach a chime where the avenger stops. He makes a killing now and then, and swipes some sucker's hoard; but never may, like other men, the whole some joys afford, and soon or later in the pen he has his bed and board. For him there is no peace of mind, no rest at set of sun, and moral people and refined he ever more must shun, and if he hears a step behind, his impulse is to run. His nerve forsakes him when he's old, his days are days of dread, the step that once was firm and bold is like a rabbit's tread, and, shaking in the dark and cold, he wishes he were dead. And if he'd use the clever brain with which he is endowed, for purposes of honest gain, in ways by law allowed, when old age gets him he might train with any classy crowd. 'Tis strange that men of splendid gifts elect with crooks to chase and try out all the evil shifts that stern detectives trace, and join the caravan that drifts to prison and disgrace. 'Tis strange because they wall must know the end of such a trail; the law will dog them to and fro and in the end prevail; and crime will bring them only woe, and long years in a jail.

In fall evening dress he appeared in Times Square from a side street shortly after midnight. He stepped and rather lurched his way to the middle of the square and in one hand he carried a lighted red lantern. A policeman watched him wandering about for a while and then went over to him. "What's the idea of the red lantern?" inquired the cop with a humor-

Dave Stamper is one of the melody boys of Tin Pan Alley. From a piano player in a Coney Island beer hall he has become a composer of a hundred or more hits. He is still in his early thirties and like Irving Berlin has made a fortune. He is an inveterate smoker of rat tailed stogies of doubtful quality and he always wears shoes that have a squeak. No one knows why and Dave merely smiles at the eccentricity. At a theatrical rehearsal the other day the stage was darkened. A squeaking sound was heard. "Put on the gas masks boys" shouted an actor "here comes Dave Stamper."

Fannie Hurst's broadside at motion picture producers for mangling her novel in the films is said to be only the beginning of a fight by authors. They are going to insist that their works be not left to the pitiless whims of the director. The producers on the other hand declare that when they buy a story, they have the right to fit it to the screen.

He saw the private pool, the billiard parlor, the bowling alley, the conservatory abloom with rare plants but he had known Briggs in the days of the oil swindle hole and was a bit cynical. "Where's the settin' room?" he asked.

My dog has taken up the gay and laughing life. In a nearby building a group of English maids have afternoon tea. Several times they have called to him to join them and he drinks tea out of a saucer, eats toast and marmalade and carries on. In front of a quiet but luxurious hotel on a street running off Fifth Avenue I saw a heaping pile of trunks brought from an ocean liner. They bore the same monogram and were gay with foreign labels. CLAIM THE PACKERS WANTED PICKETS TO DRINK MOONSHINE

ALBERT LEA, Minn., Dec. 31.—A sensation was sprung when an affidavit made by Charles Dowd and other strikers, acknowledged by Dunn, attorney for the strikers, and filed with County Attorney J. O. Peterson, charging Arnold Christenson and Charley Dobslof, heads at the Albert Lea Packing Company, with an attempt to get picket men on duty around the plant to drink moonshine whiskey, which they believed was to get the pickets drunk so they would commit violence and their cause would be lost.

NATIONAL GUARD ON JOB IN STRIKE OF KY. STEEL WORKERS

NEWPORT, Ky., Dec. 31.—Four companies of the Kentucky National Guard, made up of 100 men fully armed, have been sent here by Governor Morrow. The troops were requested by the Andrews Steel Company, which is part of the steel trust and whose employees have been on strike for some time. City officials flatly refused to request the troops when the company appealed to them, but an appeal to the governor was successful.

Despite the machine guns placed at the plant and the constant firing indulged in by the guards, the pickets of the strikers have remained on the job. Blockhouses coated with sheet iron have been erected by the union men to ward off the stray bullets. Strikebreakers from Cincinnati, just across the river, have been taken into the plant by auto.

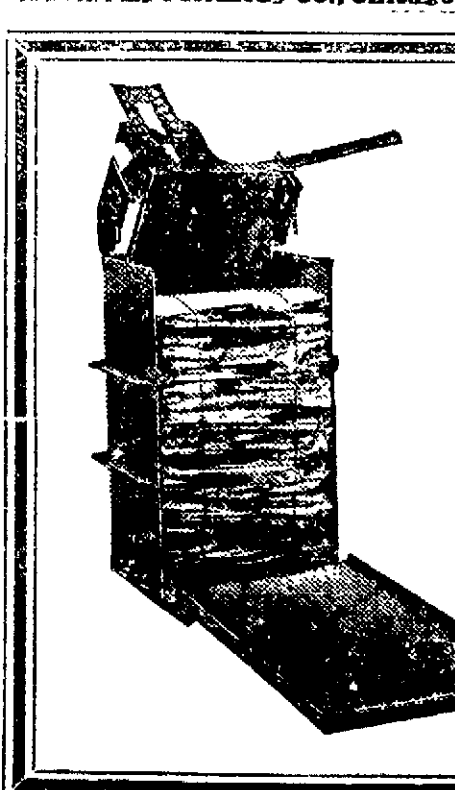

PRINTERS' STRIKE FOUR FIFTHS WON

MILWAUKEE, Dec. 31.—"We have the 44-hour week in the printing shops of 300 cities in the United States, including New York and Chicago," said Raymond Moore, president Milwaukee Typographical Union No. 23, in answer to propaganda by the employers to the effect that the fight for the 44-hour week by the printers' unions had been a failure throughout the country.

"Only 200 of the 800 unions in the International Typographical Union are still on strike," Moore said. "The other 600 unions are working on a 44-hour week. Of our 75,000 members only 8000 are drawing strike benefits. The rest are working 44 hours a week at the union scale."

"Our fight in Milwaukee, one of the last big centers to hold out, will be supported heart and soul by the international. The local situation is becoming more favorable. Forty shops here are now on a 44-hour basis, while 30 are not yet settled."

"The non-union shops are finding the greatest difficulty in getting competent printers since practically every good craftsman belongs to the union. 'The struck shops have lost thousands of dollars thru poor work, according to their own testimony in court proceedings the other week. They are refusing to settle because of pressure by the Commerce Association, and certain concerns who have threatened to withdraw their printing work if a settlement with the union is made."

"We expect them to come to terms before long, however."

WOMEN! DRY CLEAN THINGS AT HOME

Try it! For a few cents you can dry clean everything.

Save five to ten dollars quickly by dry cleaning everything in the home with gasoline that would be ruined by soap and water—suits, coats, waists, silks, laces, gloves, shoes, furs, draperies, rugs—everything!

Place a gallon or more of gasoline in a dishpan or washbowl, then put in the things to be dry cleaned, then wash them with Solvite soap. Shortly everything comes out looking like new. Nothing fades, shrinks, or wrinkles. Do not attempt to dry clean without Solvite soap. This gasoline soap is the secret of all dry cleaning.

A package of Solvite soap containing directions for home dry cleaning, costs little at any drug store. Dry clean outdoors or away from flame.

"DON'T CROSS YOUR LEGS WHEN YOU DRIVE," IS EXPERT'S ADVICE TO WOMAN MOTORISTS

Not only the selling of automobiles but education as to their proper use will be stressed at the Cleveland automobile show, to be held January 21 to 23 in Wignmore coliseum.

Through all the experience of people who sell automobiles to women and teach them to drive runs one thing in common—that women get into traffic troubles as much because of careless posture as anything else. Most dangerous of the careless postures has been found to be the idly crossed legs of the boudoir—or the drawing room. Men in the motor trade realize that future business depends on satisfactory use. The growing number of women who drive has called increased attention to correct posture as applied to safe motoring. Feet crossed on the floor of the car may be comfortable, but to leave them all mixed up in the levers is a practical dangerous to everyone on the highway. The clutch and brake frequently come into instant use—or should—and many accidents are attributed to woman's predilection to step on the wrong pedal. To resist the feminine inclination to lool or assume comfortable positions is pointed out as a necessary step toward safety.

PREMIER WARNS THE IRISH ON TREATY

LONDON, Dec. 31—Premier Lloyd George's statement that the Irish treaty must be ratified by the Dail in its original form and that England will make no further concessions to the Sinn Fein was interpreted today as a direct warning to Eamonn DeValera.

DeValera, who is leading the fight against ratification of the pact, has announced that when Dail Eireann reconvenes he will introduce counter proposals which would revise the treaty entirely.

Supporters of the pact, lead by Collins and Griffiths, are expected to make capital out of the premier's statement which will assist them when deliberations on the treaty are renewed next month. In the meantime, Sinn Fein organizations throughout the southern part of Ireland continue to adopt resolutions favoring the ratification.

LONDON, Dec. 29—"Great Britain has gone to the furthest limit" in recognizing the freedom of Ireland, Premier Lloyd George said in a statement issued this evening.

"Not merely rejection by the dail, but any alteration of the peace treaty will render it null and void."

If love were a respecter of persons there would be more bachelors and spinsters in the world.

American Fliers Set Four Records

NEW YORK, Dec. 31—With the world's non-stop flight record broken by pilots Eddie Stinson and Lloyd Bartaud, American fliers have set four world records this year, the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce announced.

The other three are as follows:

Sept. 28—Lieut. J. A. McCready of the army drove an airplane to the height of 37,800 feet, breaking the previous record of 33,114 feet established by Maj. Rudolph Schroeder.

Nov. 3—Bert Acosta drove a Curtiss navy racer to a speed record in competition in a closed course in the Pulitzer trophy race, going 150 miles at the rate of 176.7 miles an hour. The previous record of 173 miles an hour was made on Oct. 1 by George Korsch at Fiumara France.

Aug. 16—A Loening monoplane flying boat rose 17,550 feet with four persons at Fort Washington, N. Y. establishing an efficiency and passenger-carrying record for such a machine, with Dave McCullough as pilot.

Paige To Cut

CHICAGO, Dec. 30—It was reported in financial circles here today that the Paige Detroit Automobile Co. will reduce their prices of all models $175 to $180 effective with the New Year.

Of Interest To Grads Princeton University

NEW YORK, Dec. 31—Ratification of amendments to the constitution of the national collegiate association which would change it from an advisory body to a controlling body, have been delayed a year, it developed today, thru the eleventh hour refusal of Princeton authorities to endorse them at the concluding session of the sixteenth annual convention of that body here yesterday.

The stumbling block in the amendments was the clause under the heading: "Purpose of the Association" which regulated the conduct by its constituent members in regional and national amateur athletics.

Rates Down

LIMA, Dec. 31—General reduction of freight rates on the Ohio Electric

Interurban system, aggregating thirteen and one-half cents a hundred pounds, have been announced. Reductions are applicable only on first class freight.

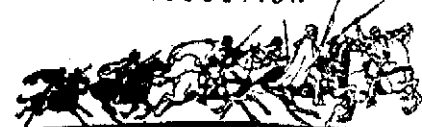

Reductions become effective at once and bring the charges of the traction company to the same level as rates now charged on steam railroads.

Wage Cut Fails

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 30.—The attempt of the Pacific division of the Southern Pacific Railroad to cut wages 10 per cent has not yet been successful, the conference between the railroad and its employees having broken up with both sides appealing to the United States Labor Board. The men feel that they are entitled to a raise rather than a reduction and have filed a brief to that effect.

IN KANSAS TERMED
ANOTHER SETBACK

KANSAS CITY, MO., Dec. 31.—"Two years of the Industrial Court has indeed been a costly and bitter experience for the people of Kansas," said Phil H. Callery, attorney for the Kansas miners, in a statement to a reporter just after he had filed papers for a federal habeas corpus writ for the release of Howat and Dorchy.

"It has been especially costly for the people of southeast Kansas. In the counties of Crawford and Cherokee the coal industry has been practically ruined, and many business concerns that two years ago were highly prosperous are now said to be tottering on the verge of bankruptcy.

"The city of Pittsburgh, that has been the most prosperous and fast growing city in the United States, is today, industrially paralyzed and another year of the Industrial Court will doubtless complete the financial ruin of that entire district.

"The financial distress suffered by the coal district of southeastern Kansas thru the interference of the Industrial Court since its establishment is variously estimated at from $20,000,000 to $25,000,000.

"While but little honest expression of opinion from the mass of the people of the coal section finds its way into print, nevertheless I believe it is a conservative estimate when I say that 95 per cent of the business interests, the farmers and the laboring class of Crawford and Cherokee counties are bitterly opposed to the Industrial Court law.

"But Kansas has survived a good many pests and setbacks in her time. Among these have been drouths, locusts, grasshoppers and chinch bugs. She will also doubtless survive Governor Allen and the Industrial Court."

Decision on the petition for the federal habeas corpus writ is expected by the 3rd or 4th of January. If Judge Pollock declares that the two men are jailed by the anti-strike law in defiance of the guarantees of the United States Constitution they will be immediately released on a writ and the Kansas miners will return to their mine pits. This will mean a sweeping victory for the Howat forces and a sweeping defeat for Governor Allen's anti-strike law.

"The court's action cannot be foretold," said Callery, "but we are confident of a successful outcome of the suit. Our petition cites a series of provisions in the Constitution of the United States which are violated by the Industrial Court act and the deprivation of the liberty of the men who refused to be turned from the course of their union duty by this tyrannical law.

"The Supreme Court of the United States has just come out clearly for the right of the workers to strike. In the decision on the suit of the American Steel Foundries against the Tri-City Central Trades Council Chief Justice Taft said:

"Union was essential to give laborers opportunity to deal on terms of equality with their employer. They united to exert influence upon him and to leave him in a body in order by this inconvenience to induce him to make better terms with them. They were withholding their labor of economic value to make him pay what they thought it was worth. The right to combine for such a lawful purpose has in many years not been denied by any court. The strike became a lawful in-

BROKEN GLASS

Copyright by The Wheeler Syndicate, Inc.

WHEN Sergt. John F. Brennan of New York's police force reached Sixty-ninth street and Park avenue shortly after the accident which caused the death of John McHugh, he found practically nothing which could come under the head of "evidence."

McHugh, it appeared, had been driving along in a light buggy, shortly after dark. An automobile, speeding from behind, had struck the buggy and smashed it to bits, killing McHugh instantly. Apparently the only living witness to the tragedy was the horse, but, as Brennan said, "there's no way of makin' a horse talk."

So the sergeant set to work to collect what bits of evidence he could gather from the surrounding street.

Caught on one of the spokes of the buggy wheel, where it had evidently been torn off by the force of the collision, was a nickel-plated lamp rim bearing the name of the "Ham Lamp Company, Rochester, N. Y." That, and a small fragment of automobile tire about three inches in length, appeared to be the only results of the damage which the automobile had suffered.

But Brennan figured that, as the lamp rim had been torn from its socket, the lens of the lamp would naturally have been shattered, so he set to work to pick up the bits of glass. When he returned to headquarters that night he brought with him an envelope containing twenty-one pieces of glass, together with the nickel-plated rim, the buggy spoke on which it had caught and the jagged piece torn from the automobile tire.

"What are you going to do with that junk?" inquired his associates on the force. "If Sherlock Holmes had had those he could have told you the make of the car, the complexion of the man who was driving it, the license number and how many gallons of gas there was in the tank—but, outside of a book, what good are they?"

"Maybe none at all," admitted Brennan, "but if you'll use some brains when you look at 'em you'll note several things that may be of help in locating the car that killed McHugh and then drove off into the night. I never did take much stock in the Sherlock Holmes stories—it's easy enough to fix it so that your hero can solve a problem that you know the answer of—but here's one case in which I think that his deductive theories will come in pretty handy.

"See that smudge?" and the sergeant held up the buggy spoke and pointed to what appeared to be a worn place on the wood toward the end which had been nearest the wheel. "At first I thought it was merely where the paint had worn off and the wood showed through. But the rest of the buggy was spick and span. Only a few days out of the shop. So I examined it more carefully and found that it was a bit of gray paint, scratched off the body of the death car itself!

"Take that lamp rim, now. There are fourteen cars on the market that are equipped with lamps made by that company. So that reduces the number of suspects that much more. We've got to look for a gray car of one of those fourteen makes, which eliminates more than 70 per cent of the cars in the city."

"But what about those pieces of glass? What are they goin' to tell you?"

"Eventually, the name of the man who owned the car," replied Brennan. "There are three kinds of glass there—one plain glass, one mirror lens and one concave convex lens. If you'll fit 'em together you'll see that the car carried eight-inch gas headlights and six-inch oil sidelights. Therefore it was an old model. The bit of rubber was very evidently ripped off a four-inch tire. Now, you members of the traffic squad, what kind of a car answers those specifications?"

"A 1909 Packard, model 18," came in a chorus from several of the men who had been trained to recognize the make and model of an automobile from the appearance of its headlights.

"Right!" snapped Brennan. "Old Sherlock Holmes wasn't so far out of the way after all. Now all we have to look for is a 1909 model Packard, painted gray, with at least one gash along the paint on the right side and badly in need of repairs. The headlights are gone, so the car couldn't have traveled very far. Got after the garages around Sixty-ninth street and we ought to have our man before morning. I've done enough work for one night and I'm perfectly willing that one of you boys should have the credit for the arrest!"

It was less than an hour later that the headquarters' phone rang and Brennan was notified that the owner and driver of the car had been arrested and had confessed, giving as an excuse the fact that he hadn't seen McHugh's buggy until he had been right on top of it and then it was too late to stop the machine. But the fact that he had driven on, without stopping to see what damage he had caused, was enough to convict him of manslaughter, and send him to the penitentiary for an extended visit—all on account of a few pieces of glass, a bit of rubber and a smudge of paint, plus the ingenuity of the detective who successfully wove these objects into the strongest kind of a chain of evidence.

CHURCHES DEPLORE
SLACKER TENDENCY
IN BIRTH CONTROL

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 31—"The clergyman with few children or none at all has felt entitled to thunder like a Hebrew prophet at couples who stop at three or four children whereas their grandparents gave the world ten or a dozen," declared E. A. Ross, professor of sociology, University of Wisconsin, in an address on "Controlled Fecundity" before the American Sociological society here.

"Family restriction has been pointed to as if it were a spreading leprosy. Because it affords such a splendid text for Jeremiahs and because a hot controversy has raged about the morality of certain restrictive practices, the shrinkage in the size of families has attracted an enormous amount of attention. And yet in most countries, so far as population growth is concerned, the extraordinary lowering of the death rate quite balances and neutralizes that shortage of the baby crop which has inspired so many gloomy prophecies.

"Thru its first millennium and a half during which its doctrines crystallized, the Christian church was in the presence of a human mortality which must have been from two to four times that which we experience today. Naturally the church became fixed in the idea that over-population is nothing to worry about, and in her inspired wisdom she branded as a sin the deliberate curtailment of conjugal fecundity. If only the good men who are so dogmatic in this matter would condescend to apply the test of arithmetic. Imagine that with the aid of more skill and science we could hold our death rate down to 13 while the birth rate swelled to 48 per 1000. In that case our country at the end of this century would have a population equal to that of the entire globe at the outbreak of the World war.

"It is evident that millions upon millions of American married couples, perhaps the majority of those of native stock, are in some degree slackers. They are regulating the size of their families and this by other means than marital abstinence. Nor is there any prospect that the situation will improve. We shall leave unused an increasing portion of that fertility which became established in our species long ago in order to meet a rate of wastage which no longer presents itself in civilized life. If such deliberate limitation of family size is a sin then what an appalling prospect of divine displeasure opens up.

"While the general American birth rate is quite reasonable under the circumstances there ought to be bigger families among the rising and smaller families among the stagnating, more progeny left by the gifted and fewer by the dull, less prudence in the good homes and less recklessness in the hovels and tenements."

Where Men Carry Fans.

The folding fan came originally from Japan. In the East fans were carried by both sexes and were much used at important ceremonies. The Japanese had war fans, colored bright red, and there are some fans which have a small poison concealed in the handle. The folding fan was introduced to England in Henry VIII's time, coming from Italy, to which it had been introduced by Catherine de Medici.

Bamboo Serves All Purposes.

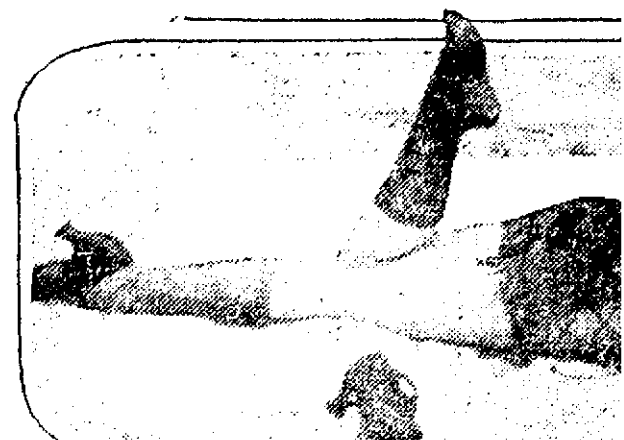

The first thing a farmer does in China is to plant round three sides at least of the site of his house a bamboo fence or grove, the second to cut it down gradually, and therefrom make every conceivable thing he may want, from the house itself down to his fan, opium-pipe and chopsticks.

KANSAS WOMEN ARE BEING BONDED FOR ACTION IN STRIKE

PITTSBURGH, Kan., Dec. 31.—A policy of quiet single arrests has been going on among Crawford County women this last week and up to date 21 have been taken. They are charged with unlawful assembly and released on $750 bail each. Six of them were also charged with disturbing the peace because they were supposed to have been more vigorous in their action towards the strike-breakers who fled before them than the rest of the women. These six were asked for an additional $1000 of bail each.

The women are bound over till the February term of the county court. Attorneys for the miners protested at the excessive bail. The maximum penalty for unlawful assembly is only $200.

The 500 warrants have not been served and from sources close to the sheriff it is said they will not be served. County finances will not permit the feeding of that number of prisoners in case the women decide to serve out their fines, as they declare they will do.

Two hundred and fifty mining communities have passed resolutions of support for the Kansas miners in their fight against the Industrial Court law, it is announced at Howat headquarters. The last one to come in is from a mass meeting in Bellair, Ohio, and is signed by representatives from 19 locals of the U. M. W. of A. A total of more than one thousand locals have taken part in the endorsement movement.

TRIAL OF GOVERNOR
SMALL MAY BE DELAYED A MONTH

WAUKEGAN, Ill., Dec. 31.—Prospects for an early trial for Governor Len Small on charges of conspiracy to defraud the state appeared somewhat remote today and indications were that at least a month might elapse before the case is brought before a jury.

It is practically certain the case will not go to trial January 9 as had been planned by Judge Edwards yesterday. Both sides today were claiming victory as a result of the sensational developments of yesterday when the state, late in the day, dismissed the charges of embezzlement of $700,000 of state interest funds against Gov. Small alone. Earlier in the day Judge Edwards had upheld this indictment but had quashed the indictment charging Gov. Small, Curtis and Sterling with embezzlement and had quashed several counts of the indictment charging conspiracy.
